"Class History"

One September 2, 1940, twelve boys and girls, timid and frightened, entered the kindergarten room of Miss Hosfield. That day the class of "59" began. Our class consisted of Terry Buck, Alice Cich, Robert Dickie, Jean Engles, Roy Engles, Robert Glass, Russell Hawley, Lyman Jensen, Helen Lukazuski, Elsie Schjoth, Doris Viens, and John Wozniak.

In the year of "51", Armstrong contributed ten new students to our class. However, with the increase there was also a decrease as four students entered St. Joan of Arc School.

In 1955 we were reunited as freshmen in Goodman High. Our initiation kept those days memorable to us. We also took second place with our Homecoming float.

In our sophomore year, we became professionals (we thought) at the word, "high school." With more courage we put a patent on a well known Victory Dance. We also had the honor of having one of our boys on the first ten in basketball. The lucky one was Paul Jankowski.

Our junior year was a very busy year, starting off with freshman initiation. We must say the frosh looked very charming. Then our minds were centered around the traditional school paper. We selected for its title, "The Falcon Flash." We then put every conceivable effort into making our prom a successful one. The very beautiful song, "Sail Along Silvery Moon," became our theme. We choose Paul Jankowski as king and Frances Frydrych as queen. We think our prom was very lovely and enjoyable for everyone who attended. At this time we would like to thank Mr. Huennekens, Mr. Kraemer, and Mr. Anderson for all the assistance they gave us.

Now we are seniors, and our history as a class will soon come to an end. Our main ambition was to publish the annual, "Echo," choosing Lyman Jensen, and Gloria Lukaszek as Co-editors, with Mr. Kraemer as our advisor this is the result of our efforts.

We presented our class play, "You Can't Kiss Caroline," on March 6, 1959. Mrs. Paske was our energetic advisor.

Our class motto is, "Tonite We Launch, Where Shall We Anchor," our colors are White and Blue and our flower is the Blue Rose.

There are now twenty-four of us in the class of "59"---Terry Buck, Lois Cox, Jim Dallmann, Alice Duda, Frances Frydrych, Shirley Galardo, Lynn Giere, Bernie Gilewski, Russell Hawley, Darryl Huennekens, Paul Jankowski, Lyman Jensen, Chuck Kalkofen, Theresa Lockwood, Janice Kuchinski, Sophie Lubinski, Gloria Lukaszek, John Maruszczak, John Pasternak, Joe Renkas, Agnes Sagan, Elsie Schjoth, Barbara Wolosyn, and John Wozniak.

Our Baccalaureate Service was held on May 24, 1959, and Graduation Day, May 29, 1959 will bring to a close the eventful days of the class of 1959 at Goodman High School.

Class Prophecy

After many years of hard work I finally received my vacation with pay. The newspapers carried many stories about a growing city called Falcon City. It seemed the perfect spot for a vacation. So I boarded a plane at Goodman High School field. To my surprise the stewardess was Barbara Wolosyn. Then the pilot, Russell Hawley, came out to greet us before the take off. We had a few minutes before take off so we talked about old times until the plane mechanic, Paul Jankowski, okayed the plane for flight. At 8:00 a. m. we were in the air. While enjoying the sights, I was interrupted by two familiar laughs. I turned around and there sat John Wozniak and Lyman Jensen telling jokes. I enjoyed them because they weren't the same ones they told in school.

After landing at the airport, a private car met me. I opened the door and there sat Darryl Huennekens behind the wheel. He looked much taller sitting on pillows. I told him to take me to 59th Street. Since he had nothing to do he asked if he could show me around. I readily agreed.

We first stopped at a huge building bearing the sign, "Tonight We Launch, Where Shall We Anchor." This building employed people interested in flying or mechanics. Two men came toward us to show us around. They were Jim Dallmann and Joe Renkas. They told me all about their successful partnership and introduced me to their head mechanic, Terry Buck.

We then went to the Falcon Public School. There in the principal's office sat Gloria Lukaszek. She told me all about her job and offered to show me around the school. First we entered the English room where Alice Duda was trying to pound some English into her noisy students. We then continued through the school and found Lois Cox substituting for the kindergarten teacher. It seemed that her six children kept on calling her mommy, which made it confusing.

We then went to the T & A Cafe for lunch. There we were waited on by Theresa Lockwood. The food and service were excellent. I had to make an important phone call and who was the operator but Agnes Sagan.

We then paid a visit to the mayor's home, and opening the door was the butler John Maruszczek, who told us that the mayor would receive us in a few minutes. The maid, Shirley Gallardo, took our wraps. The mayor then entered the room and to my surprise there stood John Pasternak. Entering behind him was his own private secretary, Lynnette Giere, bringing him his afternoon mail.

Suddenly there came a cry from the other room and out came a little girl followed by Sophie Lubinski who was trying to calm down the crying child who had cut her hand. They then rushed her to the hospital and the nurse, Janice Kuchinski took care of her.

We all planned to get together again that night so we all met at Lil' Bernie's Night Club. We were all talking about good times together when Chuck Kalkofen asked us if we would like to order now. He said the music would start right away. Then out on the stage came Frances Frydrych who gave a cue to the bandleader, Bernie Gilewski, who had his band play, "Smile the While."

I'll never forget that day. It shall always remain in my heart and in the hearts of the classmates who shared these good times with me.

THE

END

"Never say you've reached the end,
There's always something more;
Something grand and wonderful
To strive and struggle for.

Don't build walls around yourself,
Or shroud the window pane;
Look out on the distant view
And dare to dream again."
